

Steve Barkley and the European Council of International Schools (ECIS): Inspiring Education in Nice this Fall

Steve Barkley has been invited to present a very special two-day pre-conference to coincide with the November 19-22, 2014 ECIS Annual Conference at the Acropolis in Nice, France. Echoing this year's conference theme, "Inspiring Education," Steve will explore ways for school leaders to develop coaching skills and provide effective feedback, creating a fair and balanced environment for all school community members.

On Wednesday and Thursday, November 19-20, Steve will share why coaching skills are critical for effective school leadership in his program, "Developing Coaching Skills, Practices and Culture." Participants will assess, develop, and practice the crucial verbal skills of effective coaching over two full days – a perfect opportunity for you to meet and collaborate with school heads, principals, department heads, grade level team leaders, academic deans, instructional coaches, and mentors from all over the globe.

To learn more about Steve Barkley, visit BarkleyPD.com.

For more information, and to register for both Steve's pre-conference and the ECIS Annual Conference, visit the ECIS website, ecis.org.

Stephen G. Barkley
Executive Vice President
PLS 3rd Learning

For the past 30 years, Steve has served as a consultant to school districts, teacher organizations, state departments of education, and colleges and universities nationally and internationally, facilitating the changes necessary for them to reach students and successfully prepare them for the 21st century. A prolific published author, his weekly blog, Steve Barkley Ponders Out Loud, has evolved into a go-to resource for teachers and administrators all over the world.

For more information, visit:
BarkleyPD.com